

ARRIVAL OF BODY OF THURMAN ROSS

News of Whose Death in Kingman,
Arizona, was Received Here
Several Days Ago.

FUNERAL WAS HELD TODAY.

Took His Own Life While Worrying
Over Loan.—Believed That Mind
Was Affected.

The body of Thurman Ross, whose tragic death in Arizona occurred last week, arrived in Seymour Thursday evening and was taken to the home of his father, Frank Ross west of the city, where its arrival had been anxiously awaited since the news of the young man's death was received.

The funeral services were held at the residence at one o'clock this afternoon, being conducted by Rev. F. M. Huckleberry.

From newspapers received from Kingman, it is learned that the young man took his own life while worrying over a financial transaction. It is believed that the worry caused temporary insanity as he had been guilty of no dishonorable action and only the loss of money was involved.

A Kingman paper gives the following account of the sad tragedy:

"Last Wednesday afternoon Thurman Ross bought a five shooter revolver at a local store and a few minutes thereafter shot himself in the head, at his room in the Commercial, dying about half past seven in the evening. Ross had been wagon boss for the Union Basin Mining Company the past two years and only last week quit the job and came to Kingman with the intention of going on to Los Angeles on business. He had recently made a loan of $1,500 and the fact that the loan was unsecured preyed heavily on his mind and is thought to have undermined his reason. He talked freely to friends regarding the loan and believed he would never recover the money. It was thought that a few weeks at the seashore would divert his mind from the subject, but he evidently concluded to end his existence. * * * He was an industrious, hard working fellow and had many friends among his acquaintances in the county.

Fruit Prospects.

The Cincinnati Enquirer publishes reports from all the fruit growing sections of the county. The prospects in Indiana are fair. The report says regarding the situation in this state:

"The apple crop will not exceed 50 per cent. of normal and will be about half what it was last year. Frost hurt practically all varieties of apples. Peaches will be 75 per cent. of normal. The outlook for peaches is better than it has been for several years. Pears, 15 per cent. of normal. The pear crop is nearer a complete failure than it has been for many years. Frost caught the fruit just after the blossoms were turning and it ruined the crop in many localities. Cherries are 50 per cent. of normal, frost having injured the early crop. Grapes promise an immense crop. They were not injured by the frost. Plums are in better shape than apples or cherries. The plum crop will be 75 per cent. of normal. Early strawberries did better than usual, but the dry spell has injured the present crop. In many localities the lack of rain almost ruined the berries, but the prospects are good now for a fair late crop. The outlook is for a big crop of blackberries, raspberries and the smaller fruit berries. The condition of the fruit in Indiana this year is very peculiar. In some localities the fruit is in average condition. Then for the next few miles it is poor or bad and then good again. Fruit experts are at loss for a reasonable explanation of the conditions. The reports indicate, however, that orchards that were well cared for showed more vitality than those that were neglected and that the well cared for orchards suffered less from the frost."

AUTO EVENT

Many Cars Will Pass Through Seymour Saturday, June 17.

A large number of automobiles are expected to pass through Seymour Saturday, June 17 on a sociability run from Indianapolis to French Lick. The run is being arranged by the Indianapolis Automobile Trade Association.

Going, the cars will run to this city and then on through Brownstown, Vallonia, Salem and Paoli. The return trip will be north through Mitchell, Bedford, Bloomington and Martinsville.

The path-finding trip was made this week by a committee from the association. The event will be known as a "secret time run."

The cars will be placed in three classes and secret time in which the run should be made will be fixed by the committee. The three classes will be as follows: First division, cars costing $999 and less; second division, cars costing from $1,000 to $1,999, and third division, cars costing more than $2,000, the prices being from the regular catalogue list and not including the accessories.

The entrants will have to figure out their own schedules and drive accordingly. They will not know the schedule fixed by the committee until the sealed schedules are opened after the run. However, it is stated that the average speed for the entire run will be a little less than twenty miles an hour for the Class A. cars. The drivers of the Class B and C cars entered in the run will have to figure out beforehand, or as they go along the route, just what time to make, bearing in mind the speed which they think the committee will fix for cars in their respective classes.

The smaller cars will start from Indianapolis at 7 a. m., one minute apart.

The schedule between Indianapolis and Seymour will be faster than from here to Paoli. Entrants for the run must follow the route marked by the confetti car, even if it should differ from the route originally marked out.

A checking station will be established at Seymour on the going trip.

ATTEMPT MADE TO WRECK CAR

On the Indianapolis, Columbus and Southern Traction Line Near Taylorsville.

DRUNKEN HOODLUMS GUILTY

It is Believed.—They Had Been Refused Permission to Ride
On Car.

Drunken rowdies who had been refused permission to ride on a north-bound Indianapolis, Columbus & Southern car, tried to wreck a car between Taylorsville and Edinburg Tuesday night. The men were refused permission to ride early in the evening and later when the car which left Indianapolis at 9:10 o'clock in charge of Motorman Wilson and Conductor Coons, encountered two obstructions on the track between Taylorsville and Edinburg. One obstruction was an old cross tie that had been found lying beside the track. The other obstruction was a cattle guard which had been torn from a grade crossing and placed on the track where those who placed it evidently hoped they would be able to cause a wreck.

Luckily the obstructions were seen in time to prevent a wreck.

When the obstructions were discovered an employe was sent out by the company to patrol the track between Taylorsville and Edinburg the remainder of the night.

The traction company has had much trouble at Taylorsville recently with rowdies of that village and toughs who come from Edinburg and Franklin.

Last week three men who started to drink a bottle of whiskey in a car and were interfered with by McClain, assaulted and beat him severely.

The trouble has become so bad that the sheriff of Bartholomew county, has appointed a deputy at Taylorsville to break up the rowdy practices.

State Offices.

The Eagles closed their state convention at Logansport Wednesday by the election of the following officers: Andrew Smith of Indianapolis, president; Manson Reiff of Bluffton, vice-president; Henry Schroeder of Richmond, treasurer; Charles Rigdon of Warsaw, secretary; Wm. Radcliff of Alexandria, trustee; F. D. Stanton of Shelbyville, inside guard; W. A. Grund of Columbia City, outside guard; Rev. A. M. Hockleman, Montpelier, chaplain; Harry N. Ward of Logansport, delegate from the local aeile to the national convention which is to be held at St. Louis in July.

Surprise Party.

In honor of her birthday Mrs. Ed Doane was given a pleasant surprise Tuesday evening at the home of her son, Albert Doane, on Jackson street by a number of her relatives and neighbors. She received several useful presents. Refreshments were served.

DIED.

John White, assistant roadmaster of the Southeastern line died Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock at his home in Terre Haute. He had been in poor health for several months with an abscess on the brain, but he was able at times to attend to his duties on the road and was here Monday on business.

He is survived by a wife and six children. Mr. White formerly lived here and at Crothersville and was well known throughout this county.

The remains will be brought to Seymour Friday morning at 10:25 and taken to the Nazarene Church where the funeral services will be held. Burial at Riverview.

William Anacher, son of Mrs. Adda Nicholas, formerly of Seymour, died Tuesday evening at his home two miles southeast of Brownstown.

Several months ago the lad suffered an injury to his hip and has been in poor health since. The funeral services were held at the residence this afternoon. Burial at Little York.

TEAM STOOD IN STREET

Many Hours.—Finally Taken to Barn
by Officer.

Thursday afternoon a team of horses was hitched on Chestnut street west of the Bee Hive. The horses were not fed in the evening and remained standing in the street until 1 o'clock this morning when Officer Wolf took them to Knowles Mann's livery barn.

This morning Henry Vahl from near Brownstown came and took the team home. The horses are said to have been driven to Seymour and left here by George Darlage, whose home is three miles east of Brownstown. He had not returned home this morning and a Seymour man, who knows him, stated today that he thought he saw him board a north bound interurban Thursday afternoon.

No Trade.

About one week ago G. W. Riley moved to Seymour from Columbus. He came down one afternoon on a traction car bringing with him a basket of dishes. He set the basket in the aisle and near it was a basket belonging to a woman who was also a passenger on the car. When the woman left the car she picked up the wrong basket and Riley did not notice the mistake until he reached home and found he had a job lot of woman's clothing. The woman who lived in Columbus, reported the loss to the police and advertised for her property. Mr. Riley was also on the lookout for his dishes and the police of the two cities finally succeeded in straightening out the unintentional trade and today at Columbus each basket went to its rightful owner.

Found Tomahawk.

Years ago the finding of Indian relics was a common occurrence, but now the discovery of a tomahawk or arrow heads is seldom heard of. H. A. Wilson, who lives near Elizabethtown, while taking gravel from Rock Creek recently found a tomahawk which was a perfect specimen of the old Indian stone weapon. It had been worn almost as smooth as glass by the action of water and gravel.

THOMAS HONAN TO THE RESCUE

Of the New Local Option Law.—Does
Not Agree With Bloomington
Attorneys.

ILLEGAL VOTING PUNISHABLE

According to the Attorney General.
Says Monroe County Lawyers
Were Mistaken.

An unofficial opinion rendered by Attorney General Thomas M. Honan, is of great interest to the people of Jackson county and every other county in Indiana. He declares that illegal voting in local option elections is punishable. The opinion was called forth by the publication of the decision reached by attorneys in the cases of twenty-eight students of Indiana university, whereby it was held that they could not be tried for alleged illegal voting in the Bloomington local option election last week. He says the decision is without legal foundation. The Bloomington attorneys including Judge Miers, the prosecuting attorney and in fact a majority of the leading attorneys of that city declared that the Proctor local option law regulating such elections, made no provision concerning the legality or illegality of voters, and that therefore there were no grounds for prosecution.

Attorney General Honan says:

"If the opinion expressed by these attorneys is right, then there would be nothing to prevent either the Anti-Saloon League or the brewers' association from colonizing any community where a local option election is to be held, and voting the colonists."

"The Proctor law expressly sets out that the general election laws of the state shall apply to the local option elections where the law does not specify otherwise. This controls as far as the legality of any person voting is concerned. As I understood the case, there were no grounds for dismissing the cases against the students, on the assertion that there was no law by which they could be tried. There was an abundance of law for their trials—as much as there is in any case involving a question of legal voting."

"I would not presume to give an opinion as to the legality of the votes cast by the students. That would be a question of fact to be determined solely by the court or jury."

Shocked By News.

Mrs. David Riley has received the following communication from J. P. Freman, manager of the Western Union Telegraph Company at Frankfort:

"I was shocked to hear of Arnold's sudden death and I extend to you and family my heartfelt sympathy. I granted F. A. Riley a leave of absence to spend Sunday at home."

COLORED GIRL

Became Confused and Was Killed by Train.—Seymour Man, Engineer.

In Jeffersonville Tuesday morning, Ivy Elliot, a fifteen year old colored girl was killed by a B. & O. S-W. train which was in charge of Engineer Alexander Toms of Seymour, and Conductor David L. Morgan of Jeffersonville. The girl was ground to pieces, death being instantaneous.

The Courier Journal Says: When Engineer Toms first saw the girl she was about forty feet ahead of him and was watching a train going over the bridge viaduct. This attracted her attention to such an extent that she did not see the Baltimore & Ohio Southwestern train until it was nearly upon her and she became confused. Instead of attempting to get off the track she ran along upon it. Engineer Toms says he did not have time to sound his whistle, but applied his airbrake and threw his reverse lever. The train passed over the body, which was left lying between the rails while the trip to Watson was continued.

The coroner took charge of the body.

Finally Sent Home.

Sheriff McOsker, Deputy Van Robertson and Dr. Fred Heller went to Hamilton township last Wednesday afternoon in the latter's automobile, being called by the peculiar action of a stranger in the vicinity of Wm. Isaacs' and Dan Walker's homes. The man was driving aimlessly about in a single buggy, stopping at different houses and making himself quite at home. He has been in Seymour the day before acting in the same manner, but the officers there after taking him in charge awhile turned him loose. The man gave his name as Harry Johnson, of Decatur county. He was brought here and placed in jail, and Sheriff McOsker notified the sheriff of Decatur county, who said the man's relatives were looking for him. His brother arrived here Saturday and took him back home. The man was about thirty-five years of age. He was not sound mentally and left home a few days before without saying where he was going.—Brownstown Banner.

Stage Coach Days.

There are not many people in Columbus who recall the old stage coach days in Indiana, for the stage coaches were abandoned many years ago. However, there was an ancient monument to the days of stage coaches in Indiana in Edinburg until recently.

It was an old stage barn which had stood perhaps for over half a century. The barn was used for an exchange of state horses and in recent years it was located on the premises of Charles Breeding, in the west part of Edinburg. Mr. Breeding has just torn the old building down and will use the timbers for another barn which he is building. The timbers were of yellow poplar and black walnut, and they are said to be as sound as they were when the old barn was built.—Columbus Herald.

Heart to Heart Talks.

By EDWIN A. NYE.

THE MAN ON THE JOB.

The general manager of the road swung off the rear platform of his private car and walked back to the siding where a gang of section men were at work.

"Hello, Mike," said the manager.

He knew every section foreman on the line by his first name. "What's the matter here, Mike?"

Mike used forcible language in criticizing the methods of the construction department. He explained the difficulty and showed how somebody higher up was to blame.

"I'll see about it, Mike."

When the manager got aboard his car he dictated some memoranda to his stenographer. In a few days an order was issued embodying Mike's ideas of reform. It worked admirably.

Said the manager to a friend, "If you want to get at the bottom of things, ask the man over the small job."

The man on the job knows.

The most successful editor I ever knew had weekly sessions with his entire staff, which meetings he called "brain throbs." Every man was free to criticize or suggest. The idea of the cub reporter was given as much attention as that of the telegraph editor or city editor.

The editor utilized the brain throbs of the man on the job.

Said a great Chicago merchant: "I can learn more from my clerks than from my department heads. The clerks come in contact with the public. They know."

It is so in politics.

The shrewd political manager who wants to know the drift of public opinion pays scant attention to the editorial utterances of the big city newspapers. He wants to know what the "country editor," the editor of the newspaper in the small city or town or village, is saying.

The country editor knows.

The rule holds good in every department of life. The shop foreman who is too proud to court the advice of the worker, the farmer who scorns the suggestions of the "hired hand," the housewife who thinks she can learn nothing from her domestic—these people make a mistake.

One may always learn something valuable from the man or woman on the job.

Besides—

The nearest approach that capital and labor may make to each other is that condition where the employer trusts and freely consults his employee and the employee freely consults and trusts his employer.

Taft and Roosevelt Plead for Religious Liberty.

THE COLONEL LOOKS AHEAD

The Time Is Coming, He Predicts. When the President's Chair Will Be Occupied by Jew as Well as Catholic, Which Statement Made a Decided Hit—Notable Ceremonies in Connection With Cardinal's Jubilee.

Baltimore, June 7.—To take part in a notable tribute to Cardinal Gibbons, who was celebrating his fiftieth anniversary as a priest of the church and the twenty-fifth anniversary of his elevation to the cardinalate, distinguished men of all creeds assembled at the Fifth regiment armory yesterday afternoon.

President Taft, Vice President Sherman, ex-President Roosevelt, representatives of every branch of the government, justices of the supreme court and members of the diplomatic corps were present. Governor Crothers presided over the assemblage and Mayor Preston took a prominent part in the exercises. Of the speeches made those of the president and Mr. Roosevelt, next to that of the cardinal, commanded the greatest attention and both dealt with religious liberty and toleration. The former president made a decided hit and was cheered again and again when in the course of his address he said the time would come when there would be Catholic presidents as well as Protestants and Jews would be presidents as well as gentiles. All of the speeches were complimentary in the highest degree to the cardinal.

For three hours over 18,000 men and women, and even children, stood on the main floor of the armory, listened to the speeches and applauded, and not one complaint was heard.

On the speakers' platform were the distinguished visitors and leading citizens of Maryland and of Baltimore. In the main galleries were ladies who went to see, to listen, to applaud. In one of the galleries were distinguished Catholic clergymen.

The speakers in the order named were: Governor Austin L. Cothens of Maryland, who presided; President Taft, Vice President Sherman, Colonel Roosevelt, Senator Root, Ambassador Bryce, Champ Clark, ex-Speaker Cannon, Mayor Preston of Baltimore, and his eminence James Cardinal Gibbons.

Governor Crothers presented to the cardinal the congratulations of the people of Maryland, who, he said, took pride in being residents of the state in which religious liberty was first proclaimed. He then introduced the president, who was greeted with cheers.

Senate Adjourned to Baltimore.

Washington, June 7.—The senate was in session about thirty minutes yesterday, adjourning to permit the vice president and senators to take the train at 2:45 for Baltimore to attend the celebration in honor of Cardinal Gibbons.

Woman Who Caged a Mocking Bird Hears From State.

Indianapolis, June 7.—George W. Miles, state fish and game commissioner, has refused permission to keep a mocking bird in a cage asked by a woman of West Baden. A special delivery letter was received from the woman asking special permission to keep the bird. Mr. Miles replied that he had no right under the law to grant her the permission, and he would not grant permission had he the right.

"You must release the bird or suffer the consequences," he replied. Under the law no native bird may be caged and held as a captive.

New Mexican Ambassador.

Washington, June 7.—Senator Manuel M. DeZamacoana, the Mexican ambassador to the United States, has been reappointed to his former post as financial agent of the Mexican government in London. Senator Zamacona succeeded Senator Francisco Leon De La Barra, who returned to Mexico City last March to become minister of foreign affairs, and who is now provisional president. Senator Gilberto Crespo y Martinez, according to press dispatches from Mexico City, will succeed Ambassador Zamacona.

RUMOR HAS IT THAT ACTION IS PENDING

Government May Prosecute the Steel Trust.

Washington, June 7.—That the department of justice is seriously considering the possibility of moving against the United States Steel corporation as a combination in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law, it is now apparent. Reports are in circulation that officials of the department have already determined upon such an action, but these reports lack confirmation and the general impression is that the authorities are still engaged in going over the evidence that has been gathered in an investigation of the steel concern. One Washington paper not given to sensationalism published the flat statement that an attack soon would be made by the government upon the so-called steel trust. This statement was attributed to "trustworthy information high enough to warrant credibility."

When Solicitor General Lehmann, who has charge of the steel investigation for the department, was questioned in regard to the report, he said he could not talk about it and officials of the department of justice declined to confirm or deny it.

Youthful Swimmer Drowned.

Portland, Ind., June 7.—Loren Ogan, aged eighteen, was drowned in the Salamonie river, near Pennville, when he attempted to swim to a raft.

MOONEY.

Mrs. Lillian Fitch, District Deputy of the Order of "Royal Neighbors", assisted by ladies of Brownstown Camp, organized a camp of "Royal Neighbors" in the Woodmen's Hall Friday evening, June 2nd, with 18 charter members. They adopted the name of Mooney Camp and elected and installed the following officers: Past Oracle, Mrs. Ida E. Owen. Oracle, Miss Della Fish. Vice Oracle, Mrs. Rosa Grayson. Recorder, Miss Mary Richards. Receiver, Mrs. Ethel Payne. Chancellor, Mrs. Essie Martin. Marshall, Miss Grace Tanner. Inner Sentinel, Miss Corda Owen. Outer Sentinel, Mrs. Thena Scott. Robert DeVault, Mrs. Eliza DeVault and Mrs. Minnie George, managers.

Physician, Dr. C. E. Sims. After installment of officers, the camp was taken in charge by the ladies of Brownstown Camp, who instructed the new camp in the order of business, after which refreshments of ice cream and cake were served. All departed at a late hour, very much pleased with the work as given them.

The Memorial Service of Shongotongo Tribe of the Improved Order of Red Men No. 489 at the church Sunday, June 4th, was very interesting in as much as the Rev. J. C. Orbaugh, pastor of Pleasant Ridge Church, who preached the Memorial sermon, was at his best, and put forth splendid thoughts for the brothers, not only of the Red Men, but all other orders that are founded on the principles of "Good Will to Men" as well as professing Christians. His definition of the motto of the order, Freedom, Friendship and Charity, was very pleasing. Freedom's cardinal principles are, as the others founded on the teaching of the Bible, "Faith, Hope and Charity" the freedom of the social order, of all things, perfect deliverance from all that is evil; to come and go at will or that freedom which civil liberty gives to all men and restrains only as is necessary for the safety and the welfare of mankind. That freedom that gives energy, to the enlargement of the intellect and virtues. No man is free who is not master of himself. Free and true to what he ought to be and false to do only what he only likes. Friendship is a strong habitual inclination to promote the good and happiness of each other. By friendship we mean the greatest love, the greatest usefulness, the severest truths, the best of council, the greatest union of minds of which brave men and women are capable but let us be cautious, let friendship come gently to its greatest height. If it rushes to you, it may soon work you an injury. Beware of such friendship. Charity (love) is the queen of graces, the top round of the ladder and consists of faith, virtue, knowledge, temperance, patience, Godliness, brotherly love and kindness; it inspires self, the opposite of which is hatred. Love, the badge of the disciples; "As oft as ye do this, ye do it in remembrance of me," and as oft as ye hold these memorial services, ye do it in memory of your departed brothers, surely showing the badge of love. Shongotongo Tribe was organized June 20th, 1909 and at present has a membership of sixty-six. A goodly number of the members were out to hear Rev. Orbaugh but we noticed a few absent who should have heard him. An inspiration to all good Red Men to have heard him, as it was a very instructive sermon to the order.

Over-Worked Girls

Read What This Girl Says:

Appleton, Wis.—"I take pleasure in writing you an account of my sickness. I told a friend of mine how I felt and she said I had female trouble and advised me to use Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as she had taken it herself for the same trouble with wonderful results. I had been sickly for two years and overworked myself, and had such bad feelings every month that I could hardly walk for pain. I was very nervous and easily tired out and could not sleep nights. I had dizzy spells, and pimples came on my face. But I have taken your Vegetable Compound and I am entirely cured. I think it is the best medicine in existence."—Miss Cecilia M. Bauer, 1161 Lawrence St., Appleton, Wis.

THIS GIRL SAYS IT IS WOMAN'S BEST FRIEND:

Chicago, Ill.—"Your Compound cured all my troubles and I am feeling strong and happy and able to work now. Wherever I go I shall praise Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as I think it is woman's best friend. I have told all my friends the good it has done me."—Miss Maggie Isbauer, 2418 So. Whipple Street, Chicago, Illinois.

Lorimer, Iowa.—"I had a heavy cold in the spring and got all run down and was irregular. I had no strength and had bearing down pains in my sides and back, and was very nervous and excitable. I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am all right again, and stronger than before."—Miss I. E. Williams, Lorimer, Iowa.

Is it not reasonable to suppose that a medicine that did so much for these girls will benefit any other girl who is suffering with the same troubles?

Does it not seem the only sensible thing to give such a medicine at least a trial? You may be sure that it can do you no harm, and there is lots of proof that it will do you much good.

For 30 years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has been the standard remedy for female ills. No sick woman does justice to herself who will not try this famous medicine. Made exclusively from roots and herbs, and has thousands of cures to its credit.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health free of charge. Address Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass.

RICHART

WAS ACQUITTED

Former Brownstown Young Man Not Guilty of Serious Charge.

John B. Allen, formerly of Brownstown, but now of Logansport, was acquitted in the Federal court at Indianapolis a few days ago upon the charge of passing a counterfeit $1 bill on a Logansport grocer. At the trial it was proved that it was a silver dollar which Allen had spent with the grocer.

The incident which caused the arrest occurred several months ago. Mr. and Mrs. Allen stopped at a little grocery one evening to make some purchases. That night the grocer found in his cash drawer a $1 bill which had been raised to $20. He and his daughter insisted that Allen passed the bill and they caused his arrest. Allen claimed it was a silver dollar he paid at the grocery and his wife supported him in the claim but her evidence could not be taken in behalf of the husband.

The Indianapolis News had the following concerning the case:

Judge Anderson, in Federal court yesterday afternoon, attached considerable weight to the testimony of a polite boy. The boy's politeness was helpful to John Burr Allen, a Panhandle baggageman, who was tried on the charge of passing a $1 bill that had been raised to a twenty. Allen, who lives at Logansport, was discharged, Judge Anderson having told the jury that if a verdict of guilty were returned, he would set it aside, and directed the foreman to sign a verdict of not guilty.

The boy's testimony strongly supported the theory of Senator Frank M. Kistler, Allen's attorney, that Joseph LaOrange and daughter, who said the defendant had passed the bill, had become confused by the fact that only two days before the bogus twenty had been taken in by them,

Allen's wife had bought groceries at the LaOrange store, and had given a genuine $20 bill in payment. This was the $20 bill of which the grocer was thinking when he accused Allen, it was argued.

LaOrange and his daughter in giving a list of purchases made by the defendant when they said he gave the bogus bill varied widely from the list Allen said he bought the day he was in the store. They gave the same list Mrs. Allen said she bought when she had a $20 bill changed.

To back Mrs. Allen's statement, came the polite boy from the country, who had happened to be in the store and who had volunteered to carry the groceries to her surrey, which waited outside. The boy's offer had also been testified to by the grocer. The boy's bearing on the stand, as well as the incident of carrying the groceries for a strange person who seemed to need his assistance made a favorable impression on the federal judge.

"The boy is disinterested, and I am satisfied he is truthful," said Judge Anderson to the jury. "His conduct shows he is thoughtful and considerate of others. It may be there are more polite boys in the country than in the city, but we do not have enough of them here. This boy shows up well in comparison. Why, two fifteen-year-old boys almost pushed me out of the elevator in this building today, when I started to go into the elevator."

Allen, on the witness stand, had denied that he gave the $20 bill to the grocer, saying that for the purchases he gave a silver dollar that he obtained from his wife. Mrs. Allen also said she had given Mr. Allen two silver dollars just before he went into the store to buy the groceries.

Judge O. H. Montgomery has been re-elected a member of the board of trustees of Hanover College.

CITY SHOOK AS MADERO CAME

Earthquake Marked Liberator's Entrance to Capital.

SIXTY SOLDIERS WERE KILLED

Violent Quake Demolished Several Buildings, Including the Artillery Quarters, Where the Soldiers Were Buried in the Ruins—No Civil Disturbance Attended Madero's Triumphant Entry.

Mexico City, June 8.—The earthquake here yesterday was the worst in the recent history of Mexico City. Several buildings were wrecked, including the artillery quarters, where seventy soldiers were buried in the ruins. The death list amounts to more than sixty, and more than a hundred were wounded. All perceptible shaking was over in about five minutes. The scope of the disturbance was small.

Mexico City, June 8.—Yesterday afternoon Mexico City and the surrounding country turned out en masse to welcome Francisco I. Madero, the first national hero in thirty years; the first really democratic statesman who has appeared since the days of Juarez. The celebration passed off entirely without accident. Starting with the arrival of Madero's train until Madero, from the balcony of his residence, bade farewell to the crowd of enthusiasts who had followed him and were demanding more speeches, every detail of the celebration was carried out without a hitch. The straw-hatted crowd was good-natured and there was not a single Porfirista in sight to mar the view. The only cries heard were vivas for Madero and Vasquez Gomez Orozco. Until late at night the streets were full of people, but there was no sign of trouble.

The crowd that awaited Madero was distinctly different from crowds which Mexico City is accustomed to see. There were no dress clothes, no silk hats in evidence, and the crowd along the line from the station to the palace was topped with the straw sombrero of the common people. The young men in charge of the procession were mostly poorly dressed and everything demonstrated the fact that it was the people's reception to the national hero.

Several arrests of rather prominent men were made, but the police refuse to tell on what charges they are being held. It was said that another plot was discovered to kill Madero, but the story was not to be confirmed.

TICKLISH PERFORMANCE

Swiss Aviator Stuck to Unruly Machine and Landed Safely.

Geneva, June 8.—The Swiss aviator Taddell, while monoplaneing at Lausanne, had trouble with his machine while 2,000 feet in the air. The machine turned two complete somersaults, each time upsetting Taddell, but the aviator managed to climb back and get control of the machine. When within 300 feet of the ground the motor suddenly stopped and the monoplane began to fall. Taddell hung by his hands until within ten feet of the ground, when he dropped to earth unhurt. The machine passed beyond him and was wrecked.

ALIBI SUSTAINED

Mission Worker Could Not Have Murdered Wife, Say Witnesses.

Cincinnati, June 8.—Prosecutor Hunt intends to nolle the indictment against Oliver P. Smith, charged with the murder of his wife, a mission worker. Mrs. Smith was found dead in her home here on the night of Jan. 25. She had been beaten to death. Smith was arrested at Indianapolis. He offered an alibi and a number of persons living between Aurora, Ind., and Indianapolis, testified they saw him on the road between the two cities at the time his wife was supposed to have been murdered.

Swallowed Concentrated Lye. Sheridan, Ind., June 8.—Mrs. Levi Mikels committed suicide, taking concentrated lye. Despondency is the cause assigned.

W. E. D. STOKES

New York Millionaire Shot in Leg by a Couple of Girls.

GIRLS SHOT NEW YORK MILLIONAIRE IN LEG

W. E. D. Stokes Sent to Hospital for Repairs.

New York, June 8.—W. E. D. Stokes, millionaire owner of the Ansonia hotel, was shot three times in the right leg early last evening by two young women, who say that he came to get letters written by him before he was married, last February. Mr. Stokes is in Roosevelt hospital with injuries which the doctors describe as trifling. The girls say that in the scuffle, which was carried into the hallway outside their rooms, Mr. Stokes also took a random shot at them, but he did not hit anything.

Lillian Graham, who said in the station house that she was twenty-two years old and a singer, and Ethel Conrad, three years her junior, who did not specify her occupation, were the two girls. They both stuck to the story that they had gone into the scuffle out of self-defense.

"He's a bad man," said Lillian Graham.

Stokes says Miss Graham demanded $25,000 of him. He insisted that he could not remember having written letters to Miss Graham, but said he had known her several years ago.

Co-Operation in Country Life.

White River Junction, Vt., June 8.—Colonel Roosevelt was the guest of honor at the first Vermont "Get Together" banquet held by the Windsor county committee of the Y. M. C. A. held at the Gates opera house last night before an audience of 500 citizens of New England, among whom were Governor J. A. Mead of Vermont, Governor R. T. Bass of New Hampshire, and ex-Governors F. F. Proctor and Samuel Pingree. The colonel spoke on "Co-Operation in Country Life."

TAFT TO VISIT INDIANAPOLIS

Will Be Guest of Marlon Club July 4 If Plan Works Out.

TO TALK ON RECIPROCITY

Unless Pet Bill Has Fair Sailing in Congress by That Time, the President Will Seize Occasion of His Indiana Trip to Extend His Remarks to the Country on Subject Which He Holds Close to Heart.

Washington, June 8.—It is semi-officially announced that President Taft expects to spend July 4 in Indianapolis as the guest of the Marlon club if the way is clear at that time. The Indianapolis trip will not include any other engagement. At one time the president hoped to be able to go to the National Soldiers home at Marion on July 4, but some days ago he notified a committee from the State Bankers' association, which planned to give a banquet for him at Marion, that he could not be present.

He does intend to try to visit Marion and the National Soldiers' home in September. The tentative arrangement for the Indianapolis trip provides that the president and his party shall leave here on the afternoon of July 3 and reach Indianapolis during the forenoon of July 4. He will spend the afternoon in the city, probably as the guest of Charles W. Fairbanks, and in the evening will be the guest at a banquet given by the Marlon club. He will leave there on the night of July 4 and reach here during the forenoon of July 5.

The president intends to talk reciprocity at Indianapolis unless by the date of his visit he shall be convinced that the reciprocity treaty has plain sailing in the senate.

DIGGING THE GARDEN

Virginia Police Believe They Have Another Guinness Case.

Norfolk, Va., June 8.—Men have begun digging up the earth expecting to find more bodies buried in or near the garden of Mrs. Minnie Murdock, accused of murdering Harry O. Davis, whose badly battered body was dug up from an onion patch that surrounds the woman's home at Deep Creek. In her cell in the county jail Mrs. Murdock declares she did not kill Davis and laughs at the stories that the police expect to solve the disappearance of at least three other men by digging up the earth around her home.

An Indiana Man Missing.

The police say that three men have disappeared within the last three and a half years, and all of them had been associated with the woman. One of them, a G. A. R. veteran from Indiana, came here during the Jamestown exposition and was seen once around Deep Creek, but never again. The police found among the woman's effects letters showing that she corresponded with matrimonial bureaus and received letters from men all over the country, several of whom wrote that they would come here to visit her.

CAN'T SPARE HIM

Minister Furniss Has Been Impertuned to Remain in Hayti.

Washington, June 8.—It is probable that H. W. Furniss, colored, United States minister to Hayti, will continue in office for several months yet. The minister, who at the time he entered the consular service some years ago, was a practicing physician in Indianapolis, desired to return to his home and voluntarily resigned several weeks ago. He had made an excellent record in the service as a consul at Bahia, Brazil, and later as minister to Hayti. The Americans living in Hayti have petitioned the state department to retain Minister Furniss until some time after the tumultuous revolutionary troubles have passed, and it is likely that the Indiana man will be asked to withdraw his resignation.

NASHVILLE WANTS HIM

Tennessee Capital Bar Asks President's Son to Locate There.

Nashville, Tenn., June 8.—The Nashville industrial bureau has telegraphed Robert Alphonso Taft, son of President Taft, to come to Nashville, take the state bar examination and establish himself here for practice. Young Taft was unable to take the examination in Ohio because he had not registered when he began to study law, and consequently must wait two years before taking the state examination there.

No Longer Taunts Police.

Jersey City, N. J., June 8.—Through a single finger print which he unwittingly left behind him months ago, Frank Smith has been identified, seemingly beyond any doubt, as the crackman who for months has been robbing mansions in millionaire's row, the most aristocratic section of Jersey City, and then writing letters to the police taunting them with their failure either to stop his operations or to catch him.

The Columbus Republican omitted an important item of news Tuesday, the $100 reduction in the salary of the postmaster in that city.

The reduction was due to a decrease in the business of the office, due it is supposed to a slump in business in the city. In this connection it might be mentioned again that the Seymour postmaster's salary was increased $100, due to an increase in business.

The jury in the case of the state against Joseph McNelly and Lottie Chappel, charged with adultery, returned a verdict of guilty Thursday evening in Justice Congdon's court. Each of the defendants was fined $5 and costs amounting in the two cases to $58.70.

The defendants announced this morning that they would take an appeal to the circuit court. During the trial Thursday afternoon the public was excluded from the court room.

Man a Working Machine.

Man of today is as near a machine as he probably ever can become, and still exist. To keep him in perfect "running order" he has to be treated as such. Now, if your watch or auto had slipped a cog, or was "clogged up" with foreign matter threatening its very existence unless removed, would you apply acid or dope to rid it of foreign matter or to adjust its parts?

—As With Auto and Watch—so with the human body, it gets out of running order through the process of life and needs repairing. No defective machine can turn out good work. Every day that an "unclean" watch or auto, or any other machine is compelled to run, wears seriously its vital parts and saps its vitality. The longer you try to work while the body machinery is out of gear, the greater will be the damage it suffers. Health depends upon the human machine being kept in good mechanical order. Adjustment of the human body is the particular and special work of —The Spauhurst Osteopaths—That they are expert body mechanists, know what to do, and how to correctly fix what is mechanically wrong with the body structure is evidenced by kindly expressions of those who have given their treatment a fair trial. They give a little more satisfaction than is expected and make good every promise. They do not claim to perform miracles. Aid nature to health—that's all. Adjust the human machinery and nature makes the cure.

You are invited to call, consult and learn what ails you without charge. Do it today. Yes, you! It may not be too late. First National Bank Building, Seymour, Phone 557.

A Valuable Tooth.

There is an amusing story of the economy necessary in the early days of the Norwegian theater at Bergen. It was in 1840, when Ibsen and Bjornson were creating the national drama. A lady had been engaged for the part of "second old woman" when it was discovered that her elocutionary powers were impaired by the fact that she had lost one of her front teeth. Impoverished as she was, the management came to the rescue and bore the expense of the necessary dentistry. When she retired, however, after two seasons, she had to leave the tooth behind her, the example of the dentist's art being the property of the theater. The management was too poor to part with it.

New Britain Currency.

Dewarra, a currency of New Britain, is an instance of how the spoils of the chase may be turned to account as the outward and visible sign of wealth. Dewarra is made by stringing the shells of a dog whelp upon the ribs of palm leaves. These strings may be retailed at so much a fathom—usually the price is equivalent to about 75 cents a fathom length—or they may be made into various articles of personal adornment to be worn on great occasions. In New Britain the dewarra hoarded up by a rich man is produced at his funeral and divided among his heirs in much the same kind of way as personal property is divided among us.

"Mr. Fox, they are excellent. But you shall judge of them. From the moment Miss Carmel Cumberland overthrew the very foundations of our case by her remarkable testimony I felt that my work was only half done. It was a strain on credulity to believe Arthur guilty of a crime so premeditated, and the alternative which Mr. Moffat believed in, which you were beginning to believe in and perhaps are allowing yourself to believe in even now, never appealed to me.

"I allude to the very natural suspicion that the act beheld by your man Clarke was a criminal act and that Ranelagh is the man really responsible for Miss Cumberland's death. Some instinct held me back from this conclusion as well as the incontrovertible fact that he could have had no hand in carrying that piece of broken bottle into the Cumberland stable or of dropping his engagement ring in the suggestive place where it was found. Where, then, should I look for the unknown, the unsuspected third party? Among the ten other persons who dropped something into that casket.

"Most of these were children, but I made the acquaintance of every one. I spent most of my Sunday that way; then, finding no clouded eye among them, I began a study of the Cumberland servants, naturally starting with Zadok. For two hours I sat at his stable fire, talking and turning him inside out, as only we detectives know how. I found him actually overwhelmed with grief—not the grief of a sane man, but of one in whom the very springs of life are poisoned by some dreadful remorse.

"He did not know he revealed this. He expressed himself as full of hope that his young master would be acquitted the next day. But I could see that this prospect could never still the worm working at his heart and resolved to understand why. I left him ostensibly alone, but in reality shadowed him. The consequence was that in the evening dusk he led me to the cemetery, where he took up his watch at Miss Cumberland's grave, as if it were a Mecca and he a passionate devotee. I could hear his groans as he hung to the fence and spoke softly to the dead, and, though I was too far away to catch a single word, I felt confident that I had at last struck the right track and should soon see my way more clearly than at any time since this baffling case opened.

"But before I allowed my fancy to run away with me I put in an evening of inquiry. If this man had an absolute alibi what was the use of wasting effort upon him? But I could not find that he had, Mr. Fox. He went with the rest of the servants to the ball, which, you know, was held in Tibbitt's hall, on Ford street, and he was seen there later, dancing and making merry in a way not usual to him. But there was a space of time dangerously tallying with that of the tragic scene at the clubhouse when he was not seen by any one there.

"That piece of broken bottle—where was the rest of it? Sought for almost immediately after the tragedy, it had not been found at the Cumberland place or on the golf links. It had been looked for carefully when the first thaw came; but, though glass was picked up, it was not the same glass. The task had become hopeless and ere long was abandoned.

"But with this idea of Zadok being the means of its transfer from the Whispering Pines to the house on the hill I felt the desire to look once more, and while court was in session this morning I started a fresh search—this time not on the golf links. Tibbitt's hall communicates more quickly with the Whispering Pines by the clubhouse road than by the market one. So I directed my attention to the ground in front and on the farther side of the driveway. And I found the neck of that bottle!

"Now, who would do this but Zadok, who saw in it, he has said, a receptacle for some varnish which he had, and Zadok—how had he carried it if not in some pocket of his greatcoat? But glass edges make quick work with pockets, and if this piece of bottle had gone from the Whispering Pines to Tibbitt's hall and from there to the hill there should be some token of its work in Zadok's overcoat pocket.

"This led me to look for those tokens, and as I had by this time insinuated my way into his confidence by a free and cheerful manner which gave him a rest from his gloomy thoughts I soon had a chance to see for myself the condition of those pockets. The result was quite satisfactory. In one of them I found a frayed lining, easily explainable on the theory I had advanced. That pocket can be seen by you.

"But, Mr. Fox, I wanted some real proof. I wasn't willing to embarrass another man or to risk my own reputation on a hazard so blind as this without something really definite. A confession was what I wanted or such a breakdown of the man as would warrant police action. How could I get this?

"This man, guilty though he might be, loved this family and was broken hearted over the trouble in which he saw it plunged. Excused today from attendance at court, he was in constant telephonic communication with some friend of his who kept him posted as to the conduct of the trial and the probabilities of a favorable verdict.

"If the case had gone against Arthur we should have heard from his coachman—that I verily believe—but when we all saw that he was likely to be acquitted I realized that some other course must be taken to shake Zadok from his new won complacency, and I chose the most obvious one.

"Just when everything looked most favorable to their restored peace and happiness I shocked Miss Carmel and through her this Zadok into the belief that the whole agony was to be gone over again in the rearrest and consequent trial of the man she still loves in spite of all that has happened to separate them.

"He was not proof against this new responsibility. As she faintly leaped from the box, and could I have heard the words he muttered in her ear I am sure that I should have that to give you which would settle this matter for all time. As it is I can only say that my own convictions are absolute. The rest remains with you."

"We will go see the man," said District Attorney Fox.

CHAPTER XXX.

THE RECHARGED MOMENT.

THE moment I felt Sweetwater's hand lifted from my shoulder I sprang into the first back I could find and bade the driver follow the Cumberland sleigh post-haste. I was determined to see Carmel and have Carmel see me. Whatever cold judgment might say against the meeting, I could not live in my present anxiety. If the thunderbolt which had struck her had spared her life and reason she must know from my own lips that I was not only a free man, but as innocent of the awful charge conveyed in Sweetwater's action as was the brother, who had just been acquitted of it by the verdict of his peers.

I must declare this, and she must believe me. Nothing else mattered—nothing else in all the world. That Arthur might stop me, that anything could stop me, did not disturb my mind for a minute. All that I dreaded was that I might find myself too late, that this second blow might have proved to be too much for her and that I should find my darling dead or passed from me into that living death which was the harder punishment of the two. But I was spared this killing grief. When our two conveyances stopped it was in the driveway of her old home, and as I bounded upon the walk it was to see her again in Arthur's arms, but this time with open eyes and horror drawn features.

"Carmel!" rushed in a cry from my lips. "Don't believe what they say! I cannot bear it—I cannot bear it!"

She roused; she looked my way and, struggling to her feet, held back Arthur with one hand while she searched my face, and possibly searched her own soul, for answer to my plea. Never was moment more surcharged. Further word I could not speak. I could only meet her eyes with the steady, demanding look of a despairing heart, while Arthur, moved in every fiber of his awakened manhood, waited, thinking,

"DON'T BELIEVE WHAT THEY SAY."

ing, perhaps, how few minutes had passed since he hung upon the words of a fellow being for his condemnation to death or release to the freedom which he now enjoyed.

A moment! But what an eternity before I saw the rigid lines of her white, set face relax—before I marked the play of human if not womanly emotion break up the misery of her look and soften her lips into some semblance of their old expression. Love might be dead, friendship, even, be a thing of the far past, but consideration was still alive, and in another instant it spoke in these trembling sentences, uttered across a threshold made sacred by a tragedy involving our three lives:

"Come in and explain yourself. No man should go unheard. I know you will not come where Adelaide's spirit yet lingers if you cannot bring hands clean from all actual violence."

I motioned my driver away, and as Carmel drew back out of sight I caught at Arthur's arm and faced him with the query:

"Are you willing that I should enter? I only wish to declare to her and to you an innocence I have no means of proving, but which you cannot disbelieve if I swear it, here and now, by your sister Carmel's sacred disfigurement. Such depravity could not exist as such a vow from the lips guilty of the crime you charge me with. Look at me, Arthur. I considered you; now consider me."

Quickly he stepped back. "Enter," said he.

It was some minutes later—I cannot say how many—that one of the servants disturbed us by asking if we knew anything about Zadok.

"He has not come home," said he, "and here is a man who wants him."

"What man?" asked Arthur.

"Oh, that detective chap. He never will leave us alone."

I arose. In an instant enlightenment had come to me. "It's nothing," said I, with my eyes on Carmel, but the gesture I furtively made Arthur said otherwise.

A few minutes later we were both in the driveway. "We are on the brink of a surprise," I whispered. "I think I understand this Sweetwater now."

Zadok could not be found. He was wanted by the district attorney, who wished to put some questions to him. Were there any objections to his searching the stable loft for indications of his whereabouts?

Arthur made none, and the detective, after sending the Cumberlands' second man before him to light up the stable, disappeared beneath the great door, whither we more slowly followed him.

"Not here!" came in a shout from above as we stepped in from the night air, and in a few minutes the detective came running down the stairs, baffled and very ill at ease. Suddenly he encountered my eye. "Oh, I know!" he cried and started for the gate.

"I am going to follow him," I confided to Arthur. "Look for me again tonight, or at least expect a message. If fortune favors us, as I now expect, we two shall sleep tonight as we have not slept for months." And, waiting for no answer, not even to see if he comprehended my meaning, I made a run for the gate and soon came up with Sweetwater.

"To the cemetery?" I asked.

"Yes; to the cemetery."

And there we found him in the same place where we had seen him before, but not in the same position. He was sunken now to the ground, but his face was pressed against the rails, and in his stiff, cold hand was clutched a letter which afterward we read.

Let it be read by you here. It will explain the mystery which came near destroying the lives of more than Adelaide:

"No more unhappy wretch than I goes to his account. I killed her who had shown me only goodness and will be the death of others if I do not confess my dreadful, my unsuspected secret. This is how it happened. I cannot give reasons. I cannot even ask for pardon.

"That night, just as I was preparing to leave the stable to join the other servants on their ride to Tibbitt's hall, the telephone rang, and I heard Miss Cumberland's voice. 'Zadok,' she said, and at first I could hardly understand her. 'I am in trouble. I want help, and you are the only one who can aid me.'

"I had been with her many years, and I loved her as well as I could love anybody, though you won't think it when I tell you my whole story. What she wanted was this: I was to go to the ball just as if nothing had happened, but I was not to stay there. As soon as I could I was to slip out, get a carriage from some nearby stable and hurry back up the road to meet her and take her where she would tell me or, if I did not meet her, to wait two houses below hers till she came along. She would not want me long and very soon I could go back and have as good a time as I pleased. But she would like me to be secret, for her errand was not one for gossip, even among her own servants. I even tried to do better and be even more secret about it than she expected. Instead of going to a stable, I took one of the rigs which I found fastened up in the big shed alongside the hall, and, being so fortunate as not to attract anybody's attention by this business, I was out on the road and half way to the Whispering Pines before Helen and Maggie could wonder why I had not asked them to dance.

"A few minutes later I was on the hill, for the horse I had chosen was a fast one, and I was just turning into our street when I was passed by Mr. Arthur's gray mare and cutter. This made me pull up for a minute, for I hadn't expected this, but on looking ahead and seeing Miss Cumberland peering from our own gateway I drove quickly on and took her up.

"I was not so much astonished as you would think to be ordered to follow fast after the mare and cutter and to stop where it stopped. That was all she wanted—to follow that cutter and to stop where it stopped. Well, it stopped at the clubhouse, and when she saw it turn in there I heard her give a little gasp.

"Wait," she whispered. 'Wait till she has had time to get out and go in. Then drive in, too, and help me to find my way into the building after her.'

"And then I knew it was Miss Carmel we had been following. Before I thought it was Mr. Arthur.

"Presently she pulled me by the sleeve. 'I heard the door shut,' said she, and I was a little frightened at her voice, but I was full of my importance and went on doing just as she bade me. Driving in after the cutter, I drew up into the shadows, where the gray mare was hid, and then, reaching out my hand to Miss Cumberland, I helped her out and went with her as far as the door. 'You may go back now,' said she. 'If I survive the night I shall never forget this service, my good Zadok.' And I saw her lift her hand to the door, then fall back, white and trembling, in the moonlight. 'I can't,' she whispered over and over. 'I can't—I can't.' 'Shall I knock?' I asked.

"No, no," she whispered back. 'I want to go in quietly. Let's see if there's no other way. Run about the house, Zadok. I will submit to any humiliation, only find me some entrance other than this.' She was shaking so and her face looked so ghastly in the moonlight that I was afraid to leave her. But she made me a gesture of such command that I ran quickly down the steps and so round the house till I came to a shed over the top of which I saw a window partly open.

"Could I get her up on to the shed? I thought I could and went hurrying back to the big entrance where I had left her. She was still there, shivering with the cold, but just as determined as ever. 'Come,' I whispered; 'I have found a way.'

"She gave me her hand, and I led her around to the shed. She was like a snow woman, and her touch was ice itself. 'Wait till I get a box or board or something,' I said. Hunting about, I found a box leaning against the kitchen side, and, bringing it, I helped her up and soon had her on a level with the window.

"As she made her way in she turned and whispered to me: 'Go back now. Carmel has a horse and will see me home. You have served me well, Zadok.'

"I nodded, and she vanished into the darkness. Then I should have gone, but my curiosity was too great. I wanted to know just a little more. Two women in this desolate and bitterly cold clubhouse! What did it mean? "I could not restrain myself from following her in and listening for a few minutes to what they had to say. But I did not catch much of it, and when I heard other sounds from some place below and recognized these sounds as a man's heavy footsteps coming up the rear stairs I got a fright at being where I should not be and slipped into the first door I found, expecting this man to come out and join the ladies.

"But he did not. He just lingered for a moment in the hall I had left; then I heard him clamber out of the window and go. I now know that this was Mr. Arthur. But I did not know it then, and I was frightened for the horse I had run off with and so got out of the building as quickly as I could.

"And all might yet have been well if I had not found lying on the snow at the foot of the shed a bottle of whisky such as I had never drunk and did not know how to resist. Catching it up, I ran about the house to where I had left my rig. It was safe, and in my relief at finding it I knocked off the head of the bottle and took a long drink.

"Then I drank again; then I sat down in the snow and drank again. In short, I nearly finished it; then I became confused. I looked at the piece of broken bottle in my hand, took a fancy to its shape and, breaking off a bit more, thrust it into one of my big pockets; then I staggered up to the horse, but I did not untie him.

"Curiosity seized me again, and I thought I would take another look at the ladies—perhaps they might want me—perhaps I was pretty well confused, but I went back and crawled once more into the window.

"This time the place was silent—not a sound, not a breath—but I could see a faint glimmer of light. I followed this glimmer. Still there was no sound.

"I came to an open door. A couch was before me, heaped with cushions. A long ray of moonlight had shot in through a communicating door, and I could see everything by it. This was where the ladies had been when I listened before, but they were not here now.

" weren't they? Why did I tremble so, then, and stare and stare at those cushions? Why did I feel I must pull them away, as I presently did? I was mad with liquor and might easily have imagined what I there saw, but I did not think of this then. I believed what I saw instantly. Miss Cumberland was dead, and I had discovered the crime. She had killed herself—no; she had been killed!

"Should I yell out murder? No, no; I could be sorry without that. I would not yell. Mistresses were plenty. I had liked her, but I need not yell. There was something else I could do.

"She had a ring on her finger—a ring that for months I had gloated over and watched as I had never watched and gloated over any other beautiful thing in my life. I wanted it—I had always wanted it. It was before me for the taking now. I should be a fool to leave it there for some other wretch to pilfer. I had loved her. I would love the ring.

"Reaching down, I took it. I drew it from her finger. I put it in my pocket. I—God in heaven, the eyes I had seen glassed in death were looking at me!

"She was not dead; she had been witness of the theft. Without a thought of what I was doing my hands closed round her throat. It was drink, fright, terror at the look she gave me, which made me kill her, not my real self. My real self could have shrieked when in another instant I saw my work.

"But shrieking would not bring her back, and it would quite ruin me. Miss Carmel was somewhere near. I heard her now at the telephone. In another minute she would come out and meet me. I dared not linger.

"Tossing back the pillows, I stumbled from the place. Why I was not heard by my young mistress I do not know. Her ears were deaf, just as my eyes were half blind. In a half hour I was dancing with the maids, telling them of the pretty stranger with whom I had been sitting out an hour of fun in a quiet corner. They believed me, and not a particle of suspicion has any man ever had of me since.

"But others have had to suffer, and that has made hell of my nights. I restored the ring to my poor mistress, but even that brought harm to one I had no quarrel with. But he has escaped conviction, and if I thought Mr. Ranelagh would also escape I might have courage to live out my miserable life and seek to make amends in the way she would have me.

"But I fear for him. I fear for Miss Carmel. Never could I testify in an other trial which threatened her peace of mind. I see that, instead of being the selfish stealer of her sister's happiness, as I had thought, she is an angel from whom all future suffering should be kept.

"This is my way of sparing her. Perhaps it will help her sister to forgive me when we meet in the world to which I am now going."

THE END.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free. F. J. CHENEY & CO.

Try a Want Ad. in the Republican.

"Supper Ready"

When you get back to camp, tired and hungry, you do not want to spend the evening getting supper ready. You want a stove you can start up in a minute—that will cook quickly and well.

For camp, houseboat or bungalow, a New Perfection Oil Cook-stove is the ideal cooking device. It is ready for use in a moment. It saves all the trouble of cutting wood and getting in coal. It does not overheat or make dirt in a kitchen; there are no ashes nor smoke. It requires less attention and cooks better than any other range.

Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners, with long, turquoise blue enameled chimneys. Handsomely finished throughout. The 2- and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without a cabinet top, which is fitted with drop shelves, towel racks, etc.

The K. of P's were rained out last Fourth and they want to show the people who came through the rain last year and were disappointed, that we will have a good time this time. No pains will be spared to make this the best picnic ever held here. Come one and all. Bills will be out soon.

OBITUARY.

Miss Fannie Ackeret of the Ackeret neighborhood, after an illness of only a few days, died on May 22, 1911, at the age of thirty-six years, five months and one day. She was born on December 21, 1874. Her parents were Mr. Edward Ackeret and Mrs. Louisa Ackeret. She is survived by her mother, Mrs. Louisa Ackeret, one sister, Miss Emma, and three brothers, William, Fred and John.

The funeral services took place at Ackeret Chapel at 2:00 in the afternoon on May 24, 1911, and were conducted by Rev. L. A. Peck, a former pastor and friend of the deceased, assisted by Rev. Mr. Knauff of Seymour, and Rev. Isaac Corn, the present pastor of the church of which Miss Ackeret was a member. The funeral was a very impressive one and largely attended. A very appropriate text was used: "Her sun has gone down while it is yet day." Burial took place in the neighborhood cemetery near the church.

Miss Ackeret had been a Christian and a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church since quite a young girl and had been quite faithful in her Christian activities. For several years she had been a devoted teacher of the young children in Ackeret Chapel and her influence over those whom she taught, cannot be estimated. She has gone from us but we shall not forget her and the life which she lived. She rests from her labors but her works do follow her. XXX

JONESVILLE.

Quite an electrical, rain, hail and wind storm struck our town about 5 o'clock Monday evening. Lightning struck the town hall, setting fire to the cupola. The people turned out in good numbers and aided the firemen in extinguishing the blaze. The loss will not be great, as the cupola and bell were about all that were damaged.

August Kiel, who resides about one mile east of here, had two sheds with hay, many farming tools, engine and new threshing machine and several barrels of oil burned about 5 o'clock Monday evening, caused by lightning striking one of the hay sheds. Homer Hill, who was in one of the sheds where he had driven his team in out of the rain, had a severe shock. He was knocked off the plow seat, but was not hurt beyond the shock. Estimated loss of Mr. Kiel is about $3000 with no insurance.

For the Bride's Trousseau.

Furnished by Pictorial Review
The Pictorial Review Bldg.

222 224-226 West 39th Street, New York City.

The first thing to which a prospective bride looks forward is her trousseau. She wants to look her very prettiest on her wedding day and no pains are spared in rushing around from shop to shop buying filmy fabrics, lovely laces, embroideries, ribbons and the many little things so dear to every woman's heart.

There is the all important wedding gown, the "go-away" costume, the lingerie waist and silk blouse, the dainty sets of underwear, the dressing sacks and charming lounging robes, together with other wearing apparel and numerous dress accessories which must be thought of.

For the convenience of the bride who intends to make her trousseau at home we have selected these patterns, a full description of which are given below.

PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3806 would make a beautiful wedding gown. It illustrates the very fashionable way of draping the robe in the cross-over or shawl style. Satin Charmeuse, of which the gown was made, is lustrous, soft and handsome, and the short train falls in graceful folds. Limerick lace in vandyke bands is an excellent trimming for the gown, and heavy princess lace can be used for the yoke, collar and undersleeves.

Though satin of some kind is always fashionable for the wedding gown, there are other fabrics which are favored for it. Chiffon cloth made over a satin foundation gives a pleasing softness; silk voile is used in the same way, and with both these, bands of lace may be applied, on the satin beneath. Crepe meteor and crepe de chine both give the beautiful clinging lines that are so desirable in a trained dress.

Chiffon is always dainty for the small bride while satin and its allies are more appropriate for the tall dignified girl. The veil could be of fine princess lace.

Pattern sizes for this model are 22, 24, 26, 28, 30, 32 and 40 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 9 1/2 yards of 40-inch satin with 2 yards of 27-inch lace and 6 yards of band lace. The bride's going-away suit must be up-to-date and developed of as handsome cloth as the purse will allow. PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3867-3661 is a smart design for such a costume and would look well if made of Nattie-blue English suiting, and trimmed with wide bands of black silk braid. The jacket is slightly fitted and has two-seam sleeves in full or three-quarter length. Sizes are 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40 inches bust measure. The skirt has eight gores and lapped seams. It closes to the left of the center-back and comes in regulation or shorter length. Its sizes are 22, 24, 26, 28, 30 and 32 inches waist measure.

PICTORIAL REVIEW PATTERN No. 3691 is a dainty lounging robe which was made of pink crepe de chine with a lace collar the cut of which accentuates the graceful lines of the throat. The short sleeves, shirred at the elbow, are in one with the body which also has shirring where the skirt is joined in a pointed line at the front and back. Light-weight silks in pastel shades are always in order for these robes, the silk-and-cotton weaves in floral patterns produce artistic results and are inexpensive. Cross-barred dimity and batiste with colored figures are practical for them. Crepe de chine comes in dot embroidered and printed floral patterns that make exquisite lounging robes and tea gowns. Lace collar and sleeve frills or a ribbon bow may be added. Pattern sizes are 32, 36 and 40 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 7 1/2 yards of material 32 inches wide with 1/2 yard of 18-inch all-over lace. The price of these patterns is 15 cents including cutting and construction guides.

Pull Together

Dissension in a town makes the grass grow in the streets.
Unity makes the trade grow in the stores.

Other things being equal, a city is usually as big as the faith of its people.

If they believe in it enough to sink all differences and pull together you can bet dollars to doughnuts that town is on the up grade.

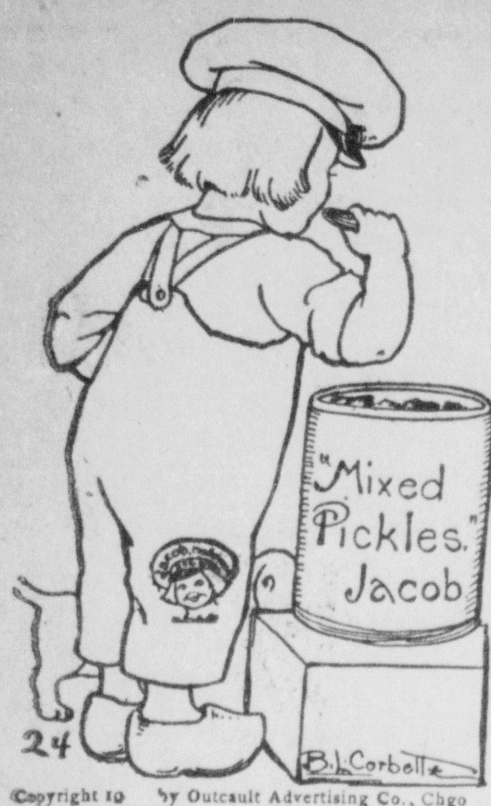

When all the merchants unite for the good of their burg it is a safe gamble that home trade will unite itself to them.

It is better to have the long green in the tills than the grass green in the streets.

Unity makes the long green grow.

The town that does not pull together will be pulled to pieces.

JUDGE GARY TELLS OF THE OTHER SIDE OF IT

Frick Was First to Suggest Steel Trust, He Says.

Washington, June 8.—Testifying before the Stanley committee of the house, Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the executive committee of the United States Steel corporation told a far different story of the inception and organization of the concern from that imparted to the investigators recently by J. W. Gates.

Mr. Gates said that J. P. Morgan, fearing that Andrew Carnegie was about to invade the railroad field of the country and extend his steel manufacturing activities along new lines with demoralizing results in both directions, conceived the plan of consolidating the big steel interests of the country and eliminating the ironmaster of Pittsburgh. Judge Gary, on the other hand, told the committee that the first suggestion came, not from Mr. Morgan, but from Henry C. Frick, and that the purpose was solely to develop a well-rounded steel plant.

Judge Gary added that until he read the testimony of Gates he had never heard of any purpose on Mr. Carnegie's part to extend his lines in the steel business by building a tube mill. A bored look chased itself over the countenance of Judge Gary every time reference was made to the tale told by Mr. Gates of the organization of the steel corporation. The testimony of Judge Gary took a wide range. He was on the stand six hours. He traced the organization of the steel company, reviewed its acquisition of other concerns from time to time, again insisted that close federal control over corporations was imperative in the interests of the public, eulogized J. P. Morgan, and said Mr. Roosevelt's "tacit acquiescence" of the merging of the Tennessee Coal and Iron company with the steel corporation showed Roosevelt to be a conservative statesman.

WILL NOW GO TO HIGHEST COURT

Marion Saloon Contention to Be Finally Tested.

LICENSES HAVE BEEN DENIED

Refusal of the County Commissioners to Grant Licenses in City Which Recently Voted Wet Has Put the Matter in Shape For the Courts and the Case Will Be Carried to the State Supreme Court.

Marion, Ind., June 8.—The Grant county commissioners have sustained the remonstrances against the thirty-one liquor license applicants in Marion and denied licenses. The twenty-one applicants, that number being the limit of saloons fixed for Marion, will appeal immediately to the circuit court. The definite action of a refusal of licenses was regarded favorably by the "wets," who feared the commissioners would refuse to act. The applicants express confidence of winning in the circuit court. The "drys" will fight the appeals to the higher courts.

ECHO OF OTHER DAYS

Death of Former Slave Recalls Famous "Underground Railroad."

Noblesville, Ind., June 8.—John Burtwell, colored, one of the oldest persons who was born in slavery, is dead here. According to the best evidence obtainable, when a guardian was appointed for him recently, he was 112 years old.

For many years before the war he was a cook on a Mississippi river steamer. One day the boat anchored at Lawrenceburg and Burtwell was sent ashore for a bucket of water. He never returned to the boat, but walked all the way to Westfield, this county, which was then famous as an underground railroad station. Although his master made several trips to Westfield in search of him, that well-known Quaker community always protected him. He was never married. He worked at the barber trade for sixty years. Last winter his home was destroyed by fire, and since that time the old man has been an object of charity.

DEADLY COLLISION

Speeding Motorcycle Dashes Into a Horse and Buggy at South Bend.

South Bend, Ind., June 8.—Michael O'Tolski is dead and Stanley Szybowski seriously hurt as a result of a motorcycle accident. The machine, driven by O'Tolski, struck a horse and buggy driven by Robert Bennett. Szybowski was riding on the tank of the motor, and in the crash was thrown over the horse's head. He suffered a broken rib and other injuries. O'Tolski's skull was fractured.

HEROIC GIRL

Risked Her Own Life to Save Child From Death.

Hammond, Ind., June 8.—Clara Stefwski, aged fourteen, rescued the infant child of Felix Macervitz from death under the hoofs of a galloping team and was trampled by the horses. The girl dashed in front of the horses and got the child out of the way, but was knocked down and probably fatally injured. There were four men in the vehicle which ran over her. No arrests have been made.

Night Riders Disappointed.

Hope, Ind., June 8.—Four night-riders visited the barn of John and Roy Miller, near here, the night after they had shipped their crop of 2,000 pounds of tobacco to Madison. They were seen by Henry Holder, who asked them their business, and was told to attend to his own, strictly and attentively. This was the first crop the Millers have raised, and they say it will be the last.

County Superintendents to Meet.

Indianapolis, June 8.—Edson B. Barber, superintendent of the schools of Kosciusko county, and president of the State Association of County Superintendents, is in the city to complete arrangements for the midsummer meeting of the association, which will be held here June 27-28. The program will be given chiefly to a discussion of the school work for next year.

Walked in Front of Car.

Warsaw, Ind., June 8.—Mrs. Pearl Canaan, aged twenty-eight, of New Paris, was instantly killed by a Winona Interurban car. It is supposed to be a case of suicide, as she was walking toward the car and had ample time to leave the track after being warned by the motorman, who was unable to reverse the power in time to prevent the accident.

Suicide of an Octogenarian.

Muncie, Ind., June 8.—Mary Jane Cummings, aged eighty-four, killed herself. A scarf was found knotted tightly about her throat. Her mind had been failing for some time.

Another Victim of Lightning.

Effingham, Ill., June 8.—Russell Young was killed by lightning while plowing near Dexter.

MRS. HARGREAVES

Daughter of Mr. Bryan Bride of a Lincoln Business Man.

Lincoln, Neb., June 8.—Grace Dexter Bryan, second daughter of William Jennings Bryan, was married at 8 o'clock last evening to Richard Lewis Hargreaves, a wholesale grocer of Lincoln. The wedding took place at Fairview and the ceremony was performed by the Rev. Harry F. Huntington of Crete, who has officiated at the weddings of the other Bryan children. Mr. Hargreaves and Miss Bryan have been sweethearts from their school days.

SIX CANDIDATES FOR THE FEDERAL PRISON

Began Their Journey to Leavenworth Today.

Indianapolis, June 8.—United States Marshal E. H. Schmidt and Deputy Alonzo Boyd took six federal prisoners to the Leavenworth prison today. The prisoners include all sentenced on pleas of guilty or after trials on indictments returned at the May session of the federal grand jury.

Among them is Edward M. Shell, commission merchant of Fort Wayne, who pleaded guilty to using the mails in commission frauds, and who was sentenced for one year. Others who were taken to Leavenworth are William Linnegar, counterfeiter, of Indianapolis, sentenced for ten years; Adam Rackie, counterfeiter, of Gary, sentenced for ten years; Leo Labodie of South Bend, postoffice robber, who goes for five years; Alador Galgocsy of Lake county, sentenced for one year for a fraudulent attempt to obtain naturalization papers, and John H. Belcher of South Bend, sentenced for one year for taking used stamps from letters and affixing them to other letters. Belcher was a rural route carrier. Linnegar, Rackie and Labodie are "old offenders."

TOO MUCH FOR JUDGE

Threatened a Gum-Chewing Woman With Jail For Contempt.

South Bend, Ind., June 8.—Mrs. John Williams, wife of a chef in a local hotel, narrowly escaped going to jail for contempt of court because she persisted in chewing gum in the presence of Judge G. A. Farabaugh. She was in court to prosecute her husband for assault and battery. The case fell through and the woman was reprimanded by the judge for filing it without good grounds. She sat unmoved, but chewed a wad of gum while the court was speaking. The judge ordered her to take the gum out of her mouth. She did not comply until threatened with a jail sentence for contempt of court.

HAVE THE GOODS.

Party of B. & O. Fishermen Have Proof For Stories.

Five B. & O. employees, Andrew Phillips, Ed Boyles, Ike Seelinger, Mose Fullen and Clarence Cox have been camping on White River between Ft. Ritner and Tunnelton the past week. For several days reports have been coming in of the wonderful catches of fish being made. This is the open season for fish stories and the first reports were allowed to pass with little comment, it being the general supposition that the hot weather was working on the imagination of the boys. But the bulletins from the front finally began coming so fast and the reports were so astounding that the more skeptical friends of the fishermen appointed Athos Gabard, a committee to visit the camp and investigate. He took a pair of scales with him to weigh everything in sight that resembled a fish. When he returned Wednesday his eyes were still bulging out from the wonders he had seen. Five and ten pound fish were as common as old shoes at the camp and were hitched along the river bank side by side like horses in a hitch lot on circus day. There were perch, cat fish, buffalo and all kinds. The prize fish and the pride of the camp was a big cat weighing 23¾ pounds. The party will return to Seymour Friday with fish for all their friends.
